THE PROGRESS OF OUR STATE.

The progress of the United States in population and wealth is unparalleled in the history of nations. We do not intend now to speak of the causes which have led to this rapid development of our country, but to recall simply a few facts illustrative of the growth of our own state.

At the census of 1870, Michigan was the 20th largest state in the Union. In 1880, it was the 18th, and in 1890, it was the 17th. In 1900, it was the 16th, and in 1910, it was the 15th.

In 1890, 21,316 whites, 261 colored, 32 slaves, 31,639. In 1900, 211,560 whites, 707 colored, 212,267. In 1910, 293,071 whites, 2,683 colored, 295,754.

In 1890, 742,314 whites, 6,786 colored, 749,100. In 1900, 2,126,000 whites, 10,707 colored, 2,136,707.

In 1910, 2,930,711 whites, 26,833 colored, 2,957,544. In 1920, 3,930,711 whites, 26,833 colored, 3,957,544.

The number of votes polled in the State at the Presidential election of 1916, was over 220,000. This, allowing one voter to every five persons, would indicate a population, at this time, of 1,100,000. We have no doubt, the population is quite as large as these estimates would indicate, and that the census of 1920 will show a population in the Province State of more than 1,200,000.

From 1870 to 1910, the rate of increase was 13.4 per cent. From 1890 to 1910, 68.4 per cent. A little over 60 per cent increase from 1870 to 1910 would give a population at the last mentioned date of over 1,200,000, as above estimated, and the rate of increase from 1870 to 1910 would be about 60 per cent.

We confidently expect, when the time comes, these figures will be found more or less correct. We think it reasonable to expect an increase of about 60 per cent in the next eleven years. No part of the State is densely populated, while large portions of it are still covered with the native forest, in which the sound of the pioneer's axe has never been heard.

All parts of the State, the older as well as the newer, are rapidly improving. Every city, town and village is growing in wealth, and in everything that goes to make a prosperous State.

It is gratifying to know that our own state is not falling behind in the march of improvement. Settlers are coming in, lands are being located, homes built, farms improved, roads opened. And yet there is room for more. All who come will be able to prosper. Government or State land, or cheap second-hand land at satisfactory prices. Of course those who come first have the best chance to make good selections.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF PRESIDENT GRANT.

Up to the present time we think the administration of President Grant has proved eminently satisfactory to those by whose votes he was elected to the Presidential office. Even those who opposed him, and who consequently did not expect to be satisfied with his career, find little cause for complaint. One of the most difficult and important duties that devolved upon the new President was the purging of the public offices of incompetent and unworthy officials, and the appointment in their place of men who would be able to perform their duties with fidelity and integrity. In these respects his administration has been successful, and his removals and appointments have been made with a large majority of cases, he has relied upon the judgment and recommendations of others. He can be personally acquainted with but few of those removed or appointed. And hence, where mistakes have been made, either in removals or appointments, the fault is not his, but of others rather than the President.

"We do not believe in the doctrine that 'the king can do no wrong,' nor do we believe that the President does it right, but we do think General Grant has endeavored to serve his country faithfully and that he has not intentionally appointed a single dishonest or incompetent man to any position of honor or trust. Our faith is firm that the administration is pursuing a course in regard to reconstruction that will result in speedily settling all difficulties and securing peace and order throughout the entire South."

So, too, of our foreign relations. We have been good, forbearing and firmness are happily combined in dealing with foreign nations. If we are correct in this view, our rights and our honor will be maintained and peace preserved. And this is just what all patriotic men should sincerely desire.

Financially the new administration is getting on the feet. In all departments of the government the most stringent economy is being introduced. Unnecessary expenditures are prohibited. Useless offices are abolished. The national debt is being reduced from month to month. And as the forces of the new administration become better organized, and all the reform machinery gets into working order, we may expect that the ratio of reduction of the public debt will be largely increased.

Secretary Sherman has resolved to let his predecessor return to do up in the provisions of the Legal Tender Act. This is a Sinking Fund. On this point the Commercial Editor of the N. Y. Independent says: "The clause of the Legal Tender Act which provides for the creation of a National Sinking Fund—under which, more or less, is absolutely binding upon the Secretary of the Treasury—has been observed, and it ought to have been, the Government would have accumulated $250,000,000 in bonds for this purpose. The law to the contrary by leading liability by practically putting the Federal Government in the hands of the public on its premium in the purchase of bonds at their current value—in short, by disposing of the value of the—very great. We regard it as an immense failure. The sinking-fund principle, as contained in the act, will pay every dollar of the public debt in less than fifty years. We are glad that Secretary Sherman (not during his presidency) has decided to obey the law, and after paying the gold interest on the Government bonds to purchase one per cent of the entire debt, and hold the same with its accruing interest as a sinking fund. This is just what Congress has directed to do in its own fiscal year."

EUROPE.

London, June 14.—In the house of peers to night in application of a debate on the Irish church bill there was a full attendance, all the seats on the floor being occupied. At the opening of the sitting the galleries were crowded with spectators, and on the streets in the vicinity of the house of parliament a great throng of people was collected. In the house many petitions were presented against the bill.

AGRICULTURAL.

Cutting Grass and Cutting Hay.
There is scarcely any work on the farm of more importance than the proper cutting of hay, and as there are a variety of opinions on the subject of the proper time for cutting hay, and also regarding the manner of cutting hay, we present a few facts connected with these subjects.

We learn from the New England Farmer that in 1885, the Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture, addressed a series of lectures on the hay crop to one or more farmers of each town in the State, and that question was asked among others:

"At what stage of growth do you prefer to cut grass to make hay?" Answer: "Answers were received from more than two hundred towns, and from one hundred and fifty farmers, showing that the hay crop is a very important one to the farmer, and that the proper time for cutting hay is a matter of great importance."

It is said that hay made from timothy cut green is not so palatable to stock as hay made from the same variety of grass cut when it is in full bloom or when it is in the seed stage. It is also said that hay made from timothy cut when it is in the seed stage is not so palatable to stock as hay made from timothy cut when it is in full bloom.

Notwithstanding the results of this experiment, it is well known that when hay is cut when it is in full bloom, the culms and leaves become very dry and hard, and the greater portion of the hay is lost in the process of drying. It is also said that hay made from timothy cut when it is in full bloom is not so palatable to stock as hay made from timothy cut when it is in the seed stage.

It is also said that hay made from timothy cut when it is in full bloom is not so palatable to stock as hay made from timothy cut when it is in the seed stage. Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of total sample area occupied by the four most abundant species (P. communis, P. maritima, P. maritima, and P. communis) over time from 1980 to 1990. The y-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total sample area' and ranges from 0 to 100. The x-axis is labeled 'Year' and ranges from 1980 to 1990. The legend indicates: P. communis (solid line), P. maritima (dashed line), P. maritima (dotted line), and P. communis (dash-dot line). AGRICULTURAL. Management of the Farmer. Mr. Wm. Brown, in Western Herald of June 3, in an article with the caption, "How to have good bread and also make money," gives some good advice in regard to cutting wheat before it becomes over ripe; also in making bales in the stacking, to prevent unnecessary exposure to the weather, etc., for which in these sections is often the result of great loss. I do not quite agree with him in regard to what he says about "wheat" in the stacks, if put up dry for there is a kind of chemical process grain passes through in the stack, that not only makes it more palatable to the consumer, but also has a tendency to prevent the heating of large quantities in bulk, after being threshed.

It is very true, while having a very small mill, he is compelled very much in his operations to cut and stack at the same time grain in weight. As the process of making the most of time and labor, in the way of making wheat into a stack, is of much importance, I am sure it will not be uninteresting to the readers of this paper, to know how the correspondent referred to, manages to accomplish so much. I have known him to be always in a hurry; working and bustling round, running after neighbors for help, even in the slackest time of the season; pleasant dreams disturbed in the "small hours" of the night, but his sleep was sound and his mind was clear. He was a very successful farmer, and his success was due to his habits, that he had formed in his youth, and which he adhered to as long as he lived.

What's ever you have to say, my friend At any time, in any, or place Use, use it, you'll be sure to find It's only in the reached word And a leader you without need A structural thing to learn, Just find a word that's new And it's done

It's like you blundering over a Whole sample of lines, and You're sure to find a word That the broad book plainly Shows when you have a thing to say And would like a little new To make quite sure of your say You'll find it

When writing an article for the Whether prose or verse, in fact Twelve you thoughts in twelve lines And you'll find a word that's new And when it's finished, and you It's done exactly to hand, Just look it over again, and then sider that they are settled the great portion of the age, she would be now toiling in a school-room, worn out, jaded, and wretched, on a miserable salary of forty dollars a month. Instead of that she is free and independent, and rich, who is the past of us, who were considered once as arduous, laboring, toiling, is a breadwinner and unthrift, that neither stalks or grain can be of much benefit. There is no probability that the grain will ripen before frost, it will be better to cut the crop and secure it before the fodder is injured. May is not as good as usual; and, on the

The texture is characterized by numerous vertical and diagonal ridges, grooves, and small pits. In the upper right corner, there is a bright, irregularly shaped area that appears to be a crack, a hole, or a patch of lighter material. The overall lighting is dramatic, with strong highlights and deep shadows.

A Curious Invention—A New Way of Seeing Through Men.

It has been popularly supposed that the fantastic machinery of a man's body was entirely his own property, and safe from the eyes of prying medical contrivers, so long as the man or retained him enough to protest against the invasion of his inner sanctuary. The blood-thirsty surgeon has had full swing to inspect and luck and how the external organs and changes of humors, and to guess at the internal ones, by the wise inspection of the pulse and tongue; but now steps up here a learned man, with a formidable-looking machine, with which he peers right through the walls of this earthly tabernacle, and sees the delicate machinery of the brain, the seat of the soul.

chasm of the stomach, the lungs and the heart in full operation. The inventor calls his machine the "viculum," or the electro-muscle telescope, and explains its operation something thus: It is possible through proper apparatus, to charge light into and produce transparency through the cuticle, lining and intervening tissues covering thoracic and abdominal cavities, by means of electricity—the element which we call transparency depending upon the degree of combustion and a strong application of electricity being able to concentrate and transmit light from one body to another, as we charge a sponge with water, or a piece of steel with magnetism. This is the abstract theory, and the inventor demonstrates it by his apparatus containing powerful lenses through which magnifying power the observer looks through the walls of the body when the subject has become charged with electricity by means of a battery connected with the machine. The medical men who have examined the invention admit there is much that is remarkable in it, but shake their heads over the idea that it is practically important; but the inventor observes with pity that they do not comprehend it—just as an unskilled observer through a great telescope is disappointed in seeing only a patch of "blue" when he looks at a star, but is aware that it is to produce a revolution in medicine art. Certain it is that, although his enterprise is of recent date, his name has been coupled with patients

They also refuse to be troubled with patients who undertake to "cure by contract" and that attracts many sufferers who are ready to catch at any straw that promises them health.

A Father's Curse.

The following was a scene in one of the revival meetings in Cincinnati of Friday last: Rev. Mr. Lewis, a convert from the Jewish faith, by request, gave a brief sketch of his sufferings and trials, when he had known a a follower of Jesus Christ. Notwithstanding the persecution of his people, his disinclination by his family, nothing, he said, could drive him from his Saviour. He did not desire to create a sympathy for himself, but hoped that Christians would pray for the conversion of his people—the Jews. Mr. Lewis then read the following letter, which, after his conversion, he had received from his father: "Thou wicked one—may thy name be blasted out. Thou hast united thyself with the assembly of the wicked! Thy father, with all thy relations, will go together to the grave of thy sainted mother and announce to her the sad tidings. Cursed be the day wherein thou wicked one, nursed by the breast of a serpent, was born. Woe to me, for the Lord has afflicted me. Thy name shall henceforth be blessed out, and no more be named by us; and may the hottest judgement of the Almighty fall upon thee, because thou hast forgotten the God

AGRICULTURAL.

Caring for Stock.

A farmer's first care is to his family; the second should be the domestic animals. "Be thou diligent to know the state of thy flock, and look well to thy herds." It will not do

To leave them to the care of hired men, Washington made it a rule to visit his stables every morning, and put his hand on every horse to see if it had been groomed properly, and otherwise well cared for. One of the largest breeders of Short-Horns in the world, once told me that he made it a rule, every night in winter, to take a lantern and visit his stables at nine o'clock, to see that every animal was comfortable. He has this year sold animals at $3,000 apiece.

There are very few ordinary farm men that are fit to have anything to do with domestic animals. They never pet them, rarely speak to them except in harsh tones, and like to use a whip better than a curry-comb. If a man kicks a cow dismiss him on the spot. Better lot crops sower than have such a brute on the premises.

I keep quite a number of thoroughbred pigs, and they are as gentle as lambs. But most men have been so long in the habit of blowing a pig, that if you ask one of them to go into a pen and drive up the pigs, he will look around for a chair. And it is curious to see how unerringly the pigs know that he is not a gentleman. They will commence to bark at him, and manifest other symptoms of uneasiness. Beware of the man that a pig, a dog or a child is afraid of. There is something wrong about him.—American Negro-cultural.

Let Horses Have Their Natural Gait.
It is bad policy to throw a team out of its natural gait, especially with a load. It is far better to put on a full load, and even a little more, and give the horses their own time for moving it to its place of destination, than to make two loads of it and hurry them. There is a certain degree of rapidity of action peculiar to the muscles of each class of animals, and indeed to each individual animal, and if

They are pressed beyond this, fatigue follows quickly, while within this limit great endurance is witnessed. To test this, let a man attempt to move his arms as rapidly as a bird does its wings, or his legs in walking as rapidly as a little boy, and see how greatly he will become exhausted. This will convince him of the folly of attempting to make his heavy draft horses move with the rapidity of a pony or fast trotter. The law of nature is, not, but, that.

that heavy bodies move more slowly.—

Strawberry Culture.

Every one who has a garden should grow a few strawberries. It is a very simple matter to grow a modern crop, but to produce it in abundance and of the best quality requires considerable skill and constant care. The best and the largest crop of strawberries that I have ever raised was produced in the following manner: A bed 25 feet wide and 200 feet long, was prepared by spreading upon it 12 cartloads of old, wellrotted cow-mansure, the ground was then plowed deep and harrowed down smooth and level. About the middle of April the plants were set out in rows, two feet apart, with a space of 18 inches between them.

No weeds were allowed to grow among the plants, and the surface of the soil was stirred at least once a week during the entire summer. Two or three runners were allowed to grow from each plant, and these were placed so that they would take root between the old plants in the rows.

In the Autumn, when the ground began to freeze quite hard at night, the entire bed and plants were covered with coarse, grass to the depth of two inches, after it had partly settled. To prevent the "moulding" being blown off, a few poles were laid around the outer edge of the bed. In the Spring, after the severe cold weather was past, a man made a row along each row, and with a stick parted the mulch just over the centre of each row of plants, so as to allow the air and light to reach the crowns and permit the leaves and fruit-take to grow up without hindrance. No other mulch was removed from the beds; consequently the soil was kept moist and the fruit clean. This bed yielded a little over 12 bushels of fruit the second season after planting, which was the first crop; after the fruit was gathered, all the grass was removed, and the soil between the rows was forked over, but to no more than a few inches depth. The runners were cut, and the grass was removed, and the soil between the rows was forked over, but to no more than a few inches depth. The runners were cut, and the grass was removed, and the soil between the rows was forked over, but to no more than a few inches depth.

I have tried many different systems of culture for the strawberry, but none has been so much established as this one, and although it may be too expensive for extended culture, yet for the amateur who does not grow more than a half acre or so, and desires to produce the largest amount possible on a given space, I can confidently recommend the above as being a system that will not only give an abundant crop, but the greatest amount of pleasure and profit. Many of the most delicate but large foreign varieties will succeed when treated in this manner, although they often fail when growing without mulch, top or winter protection—Heath and Homer.

String-Halt.

You say: "The involuntary twilling of the hind leg, or convulsive action of the muscles by which it is held, is termed stringhalt. This is evidently an affection of some of the nerves which communicate motion to the muscles. It is an irregular action of nervous energy, but what particular fibril is affected, or what muscle is chiefly spasmodic, has never been ascertained. It is principally observed when the horse that comes from the stable, and gradually enters after he has been exercised for a while. It is unpleasant to the rider, and it cannot be dissipated by any means. On the contrary, common opinion has given to the horse with stringhalt a more than usual share of strength and endurance. It is not an excess of nervous energy, although frequently termed as such, but it is difficult to associate it with general power. The peculiar nature of the defect has never been determined, but has any cure for it been discovered?"

In his work, "Diseases in the American Horse," Field and Pennard, Dr. McCrory says:

"Stringhalt is an affection of the hind leg, as is known by the peculiar way it is raised from the ground—a quick spasmic jerk. The cause is two fold. First, the loss of nervous influence, whereby the extensor polli muscle, and possibly some others are deprived of their proper power. Second, the peculiar anatomical arrangement and general structure of the hindquarters of the horse are such that when the leg is raised, the muscles of the hindquarters are not being disturbed, and strengthened on the moment the hindquarters are lifted will spring into a bent position, that imitating stringhalt. This is a habit that the balance of power, not equal, the ligaments of the back being stronger than the muscles of the thigh. Hence the moment the horse lifts the foot from the ground, the leg is instantaneously excited up by the power of the articulating ligaments. Treatment—relieve the too nervous influence, whereby the muscles of the thigh are to be brought into healthy action. This will best be done by good feeding, and one grain of strychnine, now and then, given daily for six weeks in the horse's feed—H. W. Foster, Indiana.

A Remonstrance Prayer.

The Yolo (Cal.) Mail says that a few days ago, the Rev. W. T. Leaky, Principal of the State Normal School, and who frequently acts as chaplain at the San Quentin Penitentiary, was at a visit to Sacramento, and being in the Senate Chamber one morning at the opening of the session, he was requested to open the proceedings by prayer, and did so in the following manner: Oh Lord, we pray that the State convicted of various crimes and misdemeanors have mercy upon them, we beseech thee, while they are here serving out the times for which they were sent, and when they have returned are absolved from their walls, may they return to their homes better men, and in time may they become useful and dignified and honorable members of society. We ask in the name and through the merits of Christ our Redeemer. Amen. It is said that it would be hard to describe a scene which followed.

M. Sobel, chief cashier of the Bank of France, and who is that corporate, signed all its notes in French. He was the first to sign in French, and used to boast that his autograph was the most valuable in France.

Congressman Stokes has written a letter to the Chattanooga Times, in which he states that a vacancy exists in the Naval Academy, and he proposes to fill it with a man of color. He says he desires to make a fact generally known. He wants to "show all the world."

"OUR COUNTRY—SACRED AND INVIOLENT, IT IS BEAUTIFUL IN ITS GRANDEUR AND GENEROUSLY HOLDS FORTH ITS HAND TO THE PEOPLE OF EVERY CLIME."

UPPER PENINSULA.

Exploration of a Geological Surveying Party—The Upper Peninsula, by H. M. Woodward.—Letter From Mrs. A. M. Woodward to the Board.

from the Grand Trunk Road.

Penny De Tonn,
North Cape of Green Bay, June 10, 1870.

Experiencing the most favorable success in our summer campaign against Mackinac in two days, we halted upon the island of Hebeon, made up of what I judge some of its rocks are of the same age as those now lying in heavy southernly position.

I am, Howard, proprietor of the island, informed us that he had counted 75 sailing vessels during the season of 1869, and was purchasing from Green Cove Bay, touch-fishing and lumbering stations, boats we entered May Day Nine.

On the 10th of March there were 30 boats, (200 packages) per season is 200 packages, 2 casks each. These fishermen are very much attached to their boats, and in alliance to their nets, of a rock-wooden one, sail and rough weather; they have the dash springs of which are the head waters of Whitefish River, and as we approached the north end of the shelving rock and the rippled surface of the lake attracted attention when we found nearest the submerged rock the outlet of a solingaceous stream; passing over this, the lake had the appearance of a lac à cols, the boiling column, the result of springs through the rock. These were generally in pits from four to six feet deep, if the rock had been blown out by a powder blast, and at the bottom where apertures in the rock from 5 to 18 inches in diameter, through which pure spring water was issuing with sufficient force to elevate in some places the surface of the lake a few inches; we counted 16

How to Get Fat.

It is a striking fact that most persons who are afflicted with indigestion, and who are consequently thin, healthy by their weight, as if mau would be a fair, valuable proportion to his heaving body. The reason is not that good food here lies low in the stomach, but that the system is unable to use those which experienced contractors are able to play to build railroad and big cities. The men, the world over, are the same, and the people live longest; the truth is that if a man is diseased, and as proof, fat people are never thin, and thin people are never fat. It is not hard work. Still there is a medium between being fat as a butterball and as thin and jolly as a fence rail. For mere looks to count, one must eat and drink enough to cover all the possibilities. To accomplish this in the shortest time, a man should work but little, and eat and drink as much as he can. Nothing to worry him, but always in a jovial, laughing mood, and rely on stimulants, such as cracked wheat and beer, and eat, and eat, and drink a swig of milk and butter-milk and meat

A Masonic Wedding.
A novel and very brilliant wedding took place at the Community of the Knights of the Templar of this village last evening. The bridegroom, Mr. C. C. Coulter, of the Community No. 8, Knights Templar, was married to the bride, Miss M. E. Foster, of St. John's Church, at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was presided over by the Master of the Community, Mr. J. H. Tyler, of the Lodge here. Invitations had been issued by the Community, and notwithstanding the inclement weather, a large number of the Knights was present. The ceremony was imposing, beautiful and impressive, and will be long remembered by those who were present. It was the first wedding in a Masonic Lodge and one of its auspicious, that has ever been performed in the State. The Community of the Knights of the Templar of this village has been established for some time, and in the past has been successful in its efforts to promote the interests of the Order. Certainly it was done in a noble style, and with generosity and hospitality, and it is to be hoped that the ceremony will restore the glory of the day, and always be a model for all to follow.

Newspaper Influence.
The Rev. Dr. William Falmagne, in a recent Philadelphia lecture, said of the press: "I now declare that I consider the newspaper to be the grand agency by which the gospel is preached, ignorance is cast out, oppression declared, crime extirpated, the world evil, heaven rejoiced, and God glorified." He claimed of the printing press as "absolutely true, I hear the voice of the Lord Almighty proclaiming to all the dead pass of the earth, 'Lazarus, come forth!' and the retreating surges of darkness, 'Let it be light!'"

OBITUARY.

No casualty has sent a thrill of sadness to so many hearts in this vicinity as the sudden death of our esteemed fellow citizen, Seth P. Mason.

He was born on the 24th of April, 1820, in the town of Deerfield, Putnam County, Ohio, and consequently was aged 50 years, 8 months, and 21 days.

He was educated in the common schools of his native State, and in the Ohio State University, where he graduated in 1845.

He was then engaged in agricultural pursuits. He was also a successful mechanic, and some residing here built a number of railroads, which are now in operation.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a devoted member of the same.

He was a man of high character, and a devoted member of the same.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

The most important news regarding the European war, since our last issue, is that the armistice, which was hoped had been signed by all parties interested, is still in doubt.

The French, Prussian and Russian troops are still in the field, and the armistice is still in doubt.

OBITUARY.

No casualty has sent a thrill of sadness to so many hearts in this vicinity as the sudden death of our esteemed fellow citizen, Seth P. Mason.

He was born on the 24th of April, 1820, in the town of Deerfield, Putnam County, Ohio, and consequently was aged 50 years, 8 months, and 21 days.

He was educated in the common schools of his native State, and in the Ohio State University, where he graduated in 1845.

He was then engaged in agricultural pursuits. He was also a successful mechanic, and some residing here built a number of railroads, which are now in operation.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a devoted member of the same.

He was a man of high character, and a devoted member of the same.

Hints Touching on this Point.

For the week ending Friday, November 10, 1870.

Nov. 10—Charlotte City.—

The Tragedy of Tuesday Evening.

Probably before the time of our writing the most of our readers were aware of the melancholy death of our respected citizen, Seth P. Mason.

On Tuesday night of this week, it was well known that a heavy shower was then being poured during the day, and by evening the sea was running high and the storm unabated.

About 6:30 p.m., several persons were started by hearing shouts from the vicinity of the dock, and the appalling truth soon became evident that some person had been wrecked and was in the water.

A crowd soon gathered, and the person was seen to be a man of about 40 years of age, and was in a state of insensibility.

He was rescued by a man of the name of Smith, who was a resident of the city, and was taken to the city hospital.

He died on Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock.

He was a man of high character, and a devoted member of the same.

while those movements were being made, detachments of the army were in every direction toward Beaune, midway between Montargis and Paris. Here, at 2 o'clock p.m., the army passed with 40,000 men of the Fourth Corps, Fifth and First Divisions of French cavalry, the Prussians losing 100 to 200 men, capturing two guns, and a magnificent steamer seemed to be sailing farther north. The German losses were 27th and 24th were very heavy. The army passed to the west of Beaune, Nov. 22—Ola Housell, dis.

Nominating Conventions.

The time for the assembling of the various associations to nominate candidates for County and State officers is near at hand, consequently we deem it the appropriate time to "speak out" in regard to the nominations for some of the more prominent offices, at least. From present indications we believe that Gov. Hobson will be re-nominated by a unanimous vote. No more honest, competent and faithful man than Gov. Hobson could be selected. He fully understands the business of the State, and devotes his whole attention to the public service. The traits to these assertions are so evident that we leave of our other persons in the Republican party being named for the position.

Least, Gov. Bates, who has so faithfully and creditably administered the duties of his office, and merited the approbation of the entire Republican party, will, of course, be re-nominated. And we believe that it will be by a unanimous vote of the Convention. We observe that one or two individuals, who are very eager for honors, are endeavoring to make it appear that because Lieut. Bates holds United States Office he is not therefore eligible to the position. By an article of the Constitution, it will be seen that this argument has no force. Aside from this we have seen no reason advanced why he should not have a second term, the commission would usually find in all State officers, by the Republican party.

Least, Gov. Bates is the only man that this part of the State has or ever had on the State ticket, and we unhesitatingly announce our votes in favor of his re-nomination for Lieutenant Governor, and the Secretary, will only support him for this office, but for higher office when the proper time arrives. As for the rest of the State officers, we see no cause for a change at this time. All have discharged their duties faithfully and ably.

Various.

The Grand Traverse Herald of last week announced that the engineers engaged in locating the line of the U. S. R. & L. S. through Waikow County, which land from the town of 200 north, range 9 west, being the northwest township of the county. The important bill in the Senate by Mr. Chandler, an Executive officer, his legislative duties to regulate foreign and coasting trade on the lake, has been signed by the President, and is now a law. The World estimates that the migration to Europe, composed principally of people who need to find a new home, is about 2,500 a week. During the present month the United States Treasury will pay out thirty-five millions of dollars in gold for interest on the public debt. Beside this, the Pacific Railway bonds have their gold interest fall due in July, making a million or two more. The effects of these heavy payments has already been discounted in Wall street, as is seen by the fall of the price of gold in the past few days. In an official report to the War Department, Gen. Sheridan shows up one of the heaviest of the Indian reservation and treasury policy so clearly that no intelligent man can fail to see the point. He says speaking of a hostile band, that only an attack on Fort Buford, coming in on his trail, and actually despatching to capture him: "I very much fear that these young men of the Yavapai Sioux are simply making this reservation a base of operations and supply, so they get their food and start on a war path from there; and, if pursued, take refuge from pursuit in the reservation." The public debt has been reduced during the last month Twenty millions of dollars. Since Grant was inaugurated, it has been diminished One Hundred and Forty-eight Millions. The receipts from customs during the year ending June 30th, are estimated at One Hundred and Twenty Million dollars, and the internal revenue receipts at One Hundred and Eighty-eight Millions. These sums, with thirty millions from other sources, have furnished the Government with income of nearly Four Hundred Million dollars. The Pacific Journal says that a party of scientific geologists made a trip from that city last Friday for the purpose of investigating the bottom of Lake Michigan. The trip is described as follows:

"We were forty miles in the lake, when the dredging commenced. By sounding the depth was ascertained to be about sixty-six fathoms. Then the dredge was lowered over, the same one that Fred Simpson used in the Wilkes's exploring expedition, dredging at a depth of about two miles. In what a deep-sea dredge is no way to explain as best we can. It is an apparatus about three feet long, reaching more than any thing else shows portions made of leaden, that close with a clamp in the center; but in the place of sand-bag in the center is a dip of the side of this net are strips of leather to protect it as it is drawn over the bottom. As soon as the strain on the rope begins to raise the dredge from the bottom, by a simple arrangement of the handles, the mouth closes, and then of course it is hauled up."

A number of dredgings were made, and with results the most gratifying for at that depth and in fresh water, where it was supposed that no animal existed save the fishes, were found some strange specimens, and some hitherto unknown to the naturalist, among which the Mysids (a marine form of Crustacea), four species of Gammarids, White Planaria, one species of Nais (in tubes), one species of Pteridion, one species of Lethystrochella, one species of Pteridion, and several other species not determined on the spot.

The track will be completed to Paris today, that point being the terminus of what is known as the "Big Rapids division." The depot is nearly finished at Paris, and regular trains will commence running from Grand Rapids as soon as this new twenty-mile section can be belated, which will be done during the month of July. We understand that the lumber for the Big Rapids depot is all ready to put up and will be brought here and put in shape as soon as the dock for the ferry across the lake is completed. The ferry is being built by the lower bridge in Detroit, which, if not already done, will be in a few days. Big Rapids Pioneer, June 3.

The House deserves the thanks of the country for resolutely voting down all the appropriations asked for by the Senate to carry out the Indian treaties made by the ruling Peace Commission of 1860-3. These treaties, which call for a certain amount annually, which if allowed, would, in thirty years, take twenty millions of dollars out of the pockets of the taxpayers. The House manifests a disposition to refuse its support to any more Indian treaties on any terms. We hope the Senate will stick to this determination. Mr. Palmer, of Wisconsin, told the exact truth when he said that the entire system of Indian treaties is wrong, impolitic, and extravagant. At any rate, the vote of the House gives the Indian Bureau and Senate full notice that, if they will continue the business of making new Indian treaties, they need not hope to get any money out of the Treasury to carry out their treaties, and enrich the Indian ring. Detroit Post.

We some time ago alluded to the fact that Lieut. Governor Bates was at present holding a U. S. office, and seemed "that is, thereby ineligible to the position of Lieutenant Governor, and therefore out in the field for a re-nomination. But further consideration leads us to the conclusion that he is not excluded by the terms of the Constitution. His provisions apply only to members of the Legislature, while the Lieut. Governor is really an Executive officer, his legislative duties being of an ex officio and limited character. Detroit Post.

POETRY.

MASTERLESS.

To his harness-hounds of glory,
With his battle-brown brow,
And his steady hand,
With his steady hand,
With his steady hand,

He has been where death's hand Threw him through the orange wood; Where bullets rained round him, From Chassant and musketry.

Where all that gallant Master
In the face of glory,
This is the story of his life,
Has reached his journey's end?

For years upon years together He labored in the command, Fighting the battles of his life, Rejoicing in his glory.

Say where art thou, noble Master?
Faint dark face, and weary hand,
And thy steady hand,
In the face of glory?

He is free, while thou art lying In a lonely grave, and death;
He is free, the old story,
He who long upon thy hand!

Dead? For what? For noble straying?
Better thou wert here again, For what? For what? For what?
Would thy grasp were on his hand?

Say, if framed and noble Master,
In the face of glory,
This is the story of his life,
Has reached his journey's end?

Management of Milk Cows.

In order to get well, cows must be strong and in good flesh in the spring, otherwise the last of the season is lost before they are in a condition to produce. The farmer should not neglect the health of his cows, but should keep them in good condition all the year around. The best way to do this is to keep them in good condition all the year around. The best way to do this is to keep them in good condition all the year around.

As a rule, farmers will not feed their cows enough to keep them in good condition. They will feed them just enough to keep them from starving. This is a mistake. his partner would be mighty glad to see me and have a yarn about things in general.

I again resumed my seat on the log, and had not done so long before I was accosted by a second "citizen," and much the same process of questioning went through—ending with the same proffered spontaneous hospitality —the formula being, however, varied in this instance by his requesting me to "sit in a blast;" which, being done, I again sat down on the log—with a wretched headache—the which, by the way, I need scarcely say, of a character not readily even in homoeopathic quantities by any one but those long accustomed to it. A few citizens now began to collect at the sight of a stranger, with some of whom I got into conversation, and found them (as is frequently the case) far from intelligent men, and capable and willing to supply me with much rough, practical, general information regarding the mine, and the nature of the country round about. This favorable commencement to my acquaintance with the Oreans Barites, was not, however, to last, and in a few minutes I was destined to experience the truth of what my Swedish friend had warned me of. And then a rough looking customer approached the circle. He was dressed in a buckskin shirt, buckskin trousers and moccasins; an old Chinaman's snuffbox a costly villainous description of hat when it was on—over his shoulder a most refractory style of contumacious, while over his shoulder was a heavy rifle, and in his lap a large Colt's revolver. At a glance I took the fellow's character, and was prepared for him.

"What if you come from, friend?" was the question, uttered in a hoarse, guttural voice—"and what ye gonna do—speak up!"

I had now watched him, and felt it unpleasant to be bothered, especially by such a fellow. Besides, my head was getting worse at the tone of the man's voice—very different from the others—and the half-ton-taneous smile and wink he gave to those around him as he noticed my half-hesitating appearance. He however mistook the cause of my trepidation. I looked at the fellow calmly; my right hand was in my jacket pocket, and instinctively but steadily I drew out a small but terribly effective Derrin revolver, and without his ever suspecting my intention, carelessly turned the barrel pointed in the direction of his person, and then I replied to him—slowly but firmly watching every movement of his eyes and proceeding at the slightest leastening of a breath.

"Well, judge, I am not aware this is the county court and that I am at your bar; still I don't mind answering your questions. I am an Englishman—aged twenty-five—unmarried and no present intention of being—of my particular profession, but a mining engineer by inclination just at present—come from Derrin street, London, some four years ago, though formerly from Mazatlan in Mexico, likewise from Grass Valley, California—Victoria, Vancouver Island—Carleton, British Columbia—and lastly from Jacksonville, Josephine County, State of Oregon, United States of America—business, my own look-out—going to stay here as long as it suits me—and after I am done, intend to go back whence I came.
Any more questions to ask? If that's not sufficient I will be happy to answer any more, though that's about all I have to tell, my very good friend?"

The good-natured crowd laughed and apparently saw the joke, or as phrased it, that "stranger had got the dead wood on Jed," but the rowdy seemed puzzled and uncertain how to act. Finally, after looking at me for a minute—I all the time steadily watching him—he growled out—

"Then take a drink, curse ye!"

The request was issued in an insulting tone of voice—more a command than a mere request, and even had I cared to accede to it under other circumstances, I was determined not to be bothered into anything by the fellow, knowing well that if I did it would only be the excuse for a future quarrel, and the loss of the prestige I had already gained; so I replied, with my finger on the trigger of my pocket pistol, my hand still carelessly in my pocket—and in one suspending anything —commenting each word slowly—

"No, sir—I thank you. You must excuse me. I have already drank with several of your citizens, and the liquor in this section don't agree with me. I have got a bad headache, therefore you must excuse me drinking again now. Thank you all the same." While I said these words I kept my eye still on my man—waiting for the first movement, but still he kept his rifle over his shoulder. Instantly his manner changed from the bullying to the fearful.

"Hev yet got anything agin' me, cap?"

I replied that that would be impossible, considering that I had never seen or heard of you before, and that I had already given reason for my declining his kindness.

"Then you'll either have no fight or drink!"

I well remember at the time that, quick as thought, I felt my life hanging on a thread as the crowd cleared out from behind me—out of the expected shot. But I was prepared at the first movement to pull the trigger; if a life was going to be sacrificed, I was determined that it should be his, not mine, if quickness were to be the decisive question in the matter.

"Then—you—had—better—fight—for—me—not—going—to—drink!"

Had the fellow moved a hand, an eight-pound ball would have been through him.
But he hesitated, and, I think, half-suspecting that all was not right (with him). And so, for about a minute, we stood staring at each other—I with my hands in my pocket, he with his long rifle on his shoulder.
I dare say the tableau was very fine, but I was too intensely occupied with the all-important question of shoot or be shot, to appreciate it. At one time he seemed inclined to fire, and it was difficult to restrain my trigger-finger; and after all it was well for both of us that he changed his mind, and turned away growling something which I did not catch and was heedless of. I watched him until he was out of sight, and the crowd had again closed around me. Loud were the praises which my "grit" received, and louder ever still my "smartness" when, in order to show that no great credit was due to my courage, I drew out my little cocked "De-ranger."

I drank very much more whiskey than afterwards I was good for me, and the general impression I received was that I hadn't shot in the end, and I found was called Jedediah T. Anderson, and a noted ready in that section of the country. I heard afterwards that he had a rooted antipathy to all "Europeans," but particularly to Englishmen, and had sworn to pick a quarrel with the first he could come across. He was a doctor—for two years afterwards he was nearly hammered to death with first his fist, and then the butt end of his pistol, by a bulky Yorkshireman whom he in-sulted on board of a Sacramento River steamboat.

I was never so popular a man in my life, also, as I was then, (except on that evening in the great saloon, twelve years before, when I was the great school-bully, Smith Miller) and was pretty well cock-of-the-walk with the Oreans Bar. I was advised to look out for Jedediah T., as that gentleman was a slightly vindictive turn to mind, and was determined to harbor no very good feelings of affection towards me for so effectually cutting his comb. However, I never saw him again, nor, indeed, ever heard of him until accidentally I learned, not six months ago, from his Yorkshire opponent (who was once my servant) of the untoward accident which befell him on the Sacramento steamer.

Pasture for Horses.

Winter or summer, except in stormy times, there is no place so comfortable for colts or tired work horses as a good pasture lot. To tie up a tired horse at night in a narrow cell with plank floor to stand on is a species of cruelty that civilization ought to be ashamed of. If the poor animal must be confined like a convict in a dungeon, for pity's sake let him have his head and give him at least twelve feet square, with a soft, dry floor to stand on or lie on. To the land is worth more in money than horses; but on the farm there is no excuse economy. Ask the horse what he wants and he will tell you that a place where he can walk around, lie down and stretch his tired limbs and roll over from one side to the other gives him more ease and comfort after a day of hard work, than the most costly plank stall, with all the accompaniments of curry comb, stiff bristled brushes, rubber cloths and dexterous hostlers that can be produced.

Cure for a Felon.

We want our readers against paying attention to my newspaper paragraphs in reference to health and disease, unless the name of the writer is attached. There is a scientific cure for a felon always safe, always effectual, relieving instantaneous and always: get a physician to plunge his lancet down to the bone. A natural felon is a horn thief; a physiological felon is a ball between the bone and the sinus, or "fascia" as the doctors love to talk. When a ball is under the skin only, it is painful enough until it "breaks," that is until the skin divides or bursts and lets out the yellow matter; but when it is remembered that the ball is so small, together with the fact that the ball is so tough that paper, it is easily to see that the pain of a ball, under the sinus, is more terrible than one under the skin, and that it most take longer to make its way through the fascia than through the skin; hence, instead of passing many sleepless nights and agonizing days in waiting for the matter to be absorbed, or made its way through the tough tendon, the educated surgeon advises the use of the lancet as above; for the cure is just as certain, and the relief from the agonizing pain is just as instantaneous, as in the case of a felon is usually a brace of the finger heavy enough to reach down to the bone and to pull it out.—Hall's Journal of Health.

J. C. Hopkins, Jr., the lowest man in Jersey City, has cleared over $200,000 on real estate within the past year.

The heat of lessons, for a good many people, would be to listen at a key-hole. This policy for such a practice is dishonorable.

He opened the box, took out the message, tied it to the pigeon's leg and sent it to the telegraph station, where it was carried by wires to the city, and came up town, the boys waving their hats and shouting "Hurrah!" around the streets. POETRY.

From the People's Journal.

Recollections of Early School Days.

BY E. L. HERRICK.

I'm thinking of the school-room, Ned,
"Where we sat side by side,"
And studied Euclid's spelling-book, And learned our Greek and Latin.
And then Jack knave, now and then,
When port engaged in play,
And got our pockets nicely warned—How often I'll not say.

I'm thinking of the roadside green,
Of every tree and bush,
And how in sunny hours of noon,
We paddled in the brook;
And when upon the easement came The ruler's treaded foot, How each of us, in passing in,
Took off our hats and bowed.

I'm thinking of the "old school," Ned,
And its wicket dark and cool, In which we bathed our sunburnt feet While on the way to school;
And where the youthful ladies lay,
In spring-time many a eve,
And golden lilies fully bloomed In summer, near the shore.

I'm thinking of the forest trail, Where the sun and stars grew,
And where our feet on mosses sank
As we sought to climb;
And of the pleasant meadows, where,
On sunny afternoons,
We heard the welcome blackbird sing His song of "quack-a-roo."

I'm thinking of the hour-glass, Ned, With its sand so white and fine,
On which our feet were often gazed
As we sought to climb;
And of my sister's hair, Ned, Which she often said,
As I looked on her face,
"Patience, you're growing gray."

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Beautiful Story.

It was just in the shadows of the rainy walls which towered above the line shining waters of the river, and when the tide was high dropped down the long trailing riv to kiss the laughing waves—there sat two women, with their arms resting upon a broken column, her dark eyes with the memory of the long ago stirring their memory to life, and gazed out at the floating cloud, her face a sad reflection of the past, while the other, many years younger, half knelt at her feet, and with a smile on her red lips and the light of hope in her glorious eyes, played with the light moss upon the bank beside her.

It was a perfect picture, for the twilight dusk in and about the foreground just enough to bring the wondrous beauty into relief.

To the artist eyes of Ralph Bertram, who, wondering down the river bank, came upon them, it was a perfect harmony of light and shade, an exact subject for a master piece, and there he sat down and watched until the darkness hid it out from his view.

He took the sketch home and for hours sat and gazed at it, enraptured with the glorious beauty of the scene. Who were they, or rather was she? Who was the girl with her dreamy happy face and dark molting eyes, with her lips full and soft?

When morning dawned, he went again to the river's bank and watched and waited for hours, but they never came. He enquired of every passer, but no one knew them. One would say: "Ah! yes, I have seen them—two women, one old and sad, the other young and happy. I do not know their names."

Another would declare he never knew of their existence, and thus Ralph found his search a vain one. He went on, working day and night upon his picture, and at last it was complete, and when he went up to his studio in the city, and placed it there, his friends held up their hands in admiration and worshipped it, and before many days it found a place in the most renowned Art Gallery, and all the world went craving over it.

Thus Ralph Bertram became celebrated, and orders came upon him faster than he could fill them, and all the wealth and beauty of the city smiled upon and patted him. He was admitted in every parlor, party, society and reception; he became the lion of the season, and far and near his praises were sung.

But to him it was nothing when thoughts of his beloved picture came, and hour after hour he sat and gazed upon that beautiful face, like one entranced.

"I believe, Mr. Bertram, that you are positively in love with that young face," said a bebe, as she came upon him in the gallery.
"Was it from life, or your imagination, that you painted it?"

"Impossible! It must have been a dream!
No living woman was ever blessed with such beauty."

"Yes, one."

The lady went away, and before night one half the world was jealous of his picture, and declared him crazy. It must be so, for no woman ever possessed such rare beauty. It was a dream, a hallucination.

Bertram heard it and laughed. Perhaps the day might come when he could bring his wondrous beauty before them, and convince them, and with this hope he labored and sought her far and wide.

It was a cold, bitter night, and round the corners the wind swept, bringing with it fitful gusts of hard cutting frost, and pointing to the bone every unfortunate who chanced to be abroad. Bertram came briskly down the street from his studio, warmly wrapped in a heavy coat and fur, with a vision of his pious ant rooms before him, and lightly humming an opera. He had turned from the principal street and was walking alone where all was quiet, when he suddenly came upon two women, who stood near the iron railing in front of the house.

"Mother!" said one, "it is but a little further. Do try to keep up. Here, lean upon me, mother, mother!"

She was vainly trying to support the sick form, but not all her strength could prevent her from falling. And Bertram sprang forward in time to rescue her in his strong arms as she fell back.

"Mother, O, my mother!" was the despairing cry.

"Don't be alarmed, Miss. She has only fainted. My home is here, close at hand, and if you will assist me, I will take your mother there."

The young woman obeyed him without a word, and with her assistance Ralph strode the senescent form to his elegant apartment.

There was no light within the room, and after placing the unconscious form upon the sofa, he groped his way to the match safe and lighted the gas. As the soft radiance shone thro' the room, he sprang back with an exclamation of surprise and delight. His picture!

The face of his idolized one. At the sound the younger started up and looked toward him. How beautiful she was with her head falling back and the damp waves of chestnut hair clinging to her broad white forehead, and great lustrous eyes fixed upon him in wonder.

"My mother!" she began, with quivering lips.

"I understand! I forgot myself," and he went out, brought white, cordials, and labored untill the blood stole back in little fountains, and the dark eyes opened. For several moments she did not seem to understand the strange room and surroundings; but when the younger spoke, she said:

"Agnes, darling,"
"Mother, are you better?"
"Yes, yes."

Agnes! It is like her. Pure, good, benig-nant, saintlike!

Bertram sat in the window until they called him. The older one was standing in the room, the mantle thrown around her, and one arm resting upon the shoulder of her daughter, and with you good night, and thank you for your kindness. If it were in my power I would—

"Mother, I beg you to sit down. I have spent months in searching for you, and I beg you, now I have found you, to remain here.
If you are willing to confer a favor upon me, remain here tonight, at least."

"Searching for us, what do you mean?"
"You will learn one day I love you all I possess."

She sat back seemingly petrified with astonishment.

"Who are you? I never met you! You owe me nothing."
"Will you remain here?"
"Yes, if you need us."

After a time the noble-looking woman sat in a comfortable chair near the grate, her lovely daughter at her feet, and Ralph Bertram brought forth the sketch and told the story.

"And are you the great painter, Ralph Bertram?" asked Agnes.

"I am Ralph Bertram," he answered, smiling.

"And the great picture of which we have read was made by you?"

"It is a beautiful picture in the country where we visited last summer. How strange!" Agnes' face was happy and contented in that splendid room, and with her head resting upon her mother's lap, heard her tell the story of her father's death, their flight across the sea from France, of their struggles and hardships and their other losses, and until she saw Ralph Bertram, gave his hand and beamed to him to accept his friendship.

The art gallery was crowded, and all the fashion of the city was out and promenade up and down the grand saloon, and passing before Bertram's picture to admire and compliment. All at once there was a buzz, and the crowd parted on either side. Down the opening came Bertram with a lady behind him, her arm, and as he passed a murmur went round.

"The face is his picture! How beautiful!
How perfect!"

Ralph was never happier nor prouder than when he stood with his fair companions, and heard their words of praise, and when Agnes whispered: "It is grand, Ralph, and I am so proud of you."

"My darling, your praise is worth all else to me," he answered; and he pressed her hand tenderly, and looked into the dark eyes, worshipping her glorious beauty with all his heart.

Once more the world gathered to envy and admire, when Agnes and the handsome artist stood before the altar in the church, and were united.

The picture brought him a fortune, and the original brought comfort and peace.

The Largest Gun in the World.

The latest offspring of the art of destruction is a thirty-five ton gun, just completed at the Royal Arsenal, in England.

This monstrous creation was made upon the coil principle, with two strips of wrought iron, which, before they were wrapped around the core, were about 150 feet in length. On its way to the practice ground, it crushed its own carriage and runway upon which it was traveling, but it was coaxed into moving again, and the sponsors of the interesting instrument fired it with half a proof charge, and its own shot weighing 100 pounds, and measuring a foot in diameter and two and a half feet in length. With this load the monster recoiled nearly nine feet up an inclined trail of seven degrees, but was otherwise unharmed.

When it has cut its teeth with larger charges, it is to be used, as a regular 400, 120 pounds of powder, the shot being the 700-pounder mentioned, with brass studs to fit rifling of the bore. In firing it, a wire was attached to the vent, the bell was rung and all present hastened under cover. In one of the proof houses a gunner in a canvas stood before a magnetic battery, and at the word "fire," touched a stud, when there was a loud report, and the gun was seen smoking prodigiously. It will be tested with a charge of 150 pounds of powder, the regular service charge being 150 pounds.

It is the largest piece of ordnance in the world—not excepting those ancient Titans: the Belphegor gun, called the "King of the Blast," the huge stone ball cannon of the Dardanelles, and "Mons. Meg." If an invading enemy will only be kind enough to come near this triumph of bellicose art, we think there might be a chance of slaughter on both sides. But what a telescope might have been made for the money, and what a different sort of "victories" might have been obtained with that sort of weapon! The reflection is, we know, ridiculous: "Guns, drums and wounds absorb the world."

Senator Moffatt.

The Lansing correspondent of the Big Rapid Independent, writing from the capitol under date of March 23, 1893:

The General Railroad bill came up for consideration on Thursday, at which time a strong Ransom lobby was present. Senator Moffatt's amendment subjecting railroad lands to taxation thereby by the lobby, and by Senators Hall and Wheeler. The plea of poverty on the part of railroad companies, and of their herbicide in penetrating the unbroken wilderness of the north were set up by the opposition, but Senator Moffatt insisted that such was not the case. In referring to the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company, he said that to exempt their lands from taxation was to vote money into the pockets of the wealthiest corporation on the globe, not even excepting the East India Company of England. He said it was controlled by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Co., which is the wealthiest and most gigantic monopoly in the known world. An attempt to accept the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad was made, to which Senator Moffatt replied that he would let those directly interested in that part of the State settle that; but he did not propose to let them say that railroad lands in his district should be exempt from taxation, when his constituents who have paid all the taxes for years for themselves and the Railroad Companies too, did not desire it. Mr. Moffatt is small in stature, but a tiger in debate, and his success in this instance will be gratifying to all his constituents, particularly those in your locality. The success of the Prohibition Liquor bill is mainly indebted to his efforts.

Vanderpool.

In accordance with an adjournment of Kalamazoo Circuit Court, Judge Brown held court on Monday, the 27th inst, at which time N. W. Nelson, Pres., Atty., appeared, and made a motion for a change of venue in the Vanderpool case. The motion is made upon the grounds that a fair and impartial jury cannot be obtained in said county without great expense. 2nd, That it would be more convenient for the witnesses, and expensive for the county to try the same in some county nearer the locality where the crime was committed. Which motion upon the records and files of the cause was affirmed. The county to which change of venue is Ottawa. In the affidavit in contained the facts that the cause was formally tried in Manistee, then in Kalamazoo; that most of the witnesses for the prosecution reside in Manistee, that the evidence and arguments of the counsel were published in the Kalamazoo Daily Telegraph, and extensively circulated throughout the entire county of Kalamazoo; that an impartial jury of independent men cannot be obtained; that the Haven the County seat of Ottawa County, sixty miles nearer Manistee than Kalamazoo, and that Grand Haven is accessible to all essential witnesses in one day's travel.

Hon. H. W. Hughes, counsel for Vanderpool, asked ten days in which to counsel for Mr. Van Arman, and file counter affidavits.
Mr. Nelson, insisted that the motion be argued at once from facilities of travel, and the legal ability of Mr. Hughes' affidavits, and being away from home it would be most expensive to remain or go home and return.
They being unable to agree upon a day to argue the motion, the court assigned April 7th, at 10 o'clock, a. m.

A "Look."

A very remarkable scene occurred during a speech in the Senate lately by Garrett Davis, between that gentleman and Gen. Butler.

The latter came into the Senate Chamber and took a seat directly in front of the speaker, where he sat attentively listening and watching him closely. Finally, Mr. Davis became very much excited, and in referring to the report of the Ku Klux outrages, made some very personal remarks, and actually shook his hat in Gen. Butler's face. His excitement apparently overcoming him, Mr.
Davis abruptly sat down, when, for what seemed a long time to the spectators, the two sat glaring at each other like two tigers, untill Mr. Davis became so much enraged, that he could no longer restrain himself, and immediately stood up, and in the old-fashioned Kentucky style calling him a "damned scoundrel," and repeating the epithet several times. Gen. Butler sat like a statue, never moving his eyes, and coolly requesting him to go on with his speech. Mr. Wilson evidently fearing a hostile demonstration on the part of Mr. Davis, went over to that side and endeavored to pacify him, at the same time engaging to Gen. Butler that it would be best for him to withdraw. The latter however, sat still until Mr. Davis dropped his eyes and then quietly walked over to the Republican side.

Each man ought to endeavor to lesson the burden he expects others to help him to bear. If a man have a bad habit, he ought to break himself of it. A man with a foul ulcer or a deformed limb is to be pitied; but he ought not to persist in thrusting the ulcer or deformity before us on every occasion, insisting that we shall examine it. Let him keep it out of sight as much as possible, get cured if he can, but if that be impossible, say nothing about it. So men ought not to be perpetually ostracizing their evil tempers and other infirmities before their friends, imposing on their Christian forbearance, and excusing themselves by saying: "It is my way." It is a very bad way, and cannot be mended a moment too soon.

Two minutes of a tornado did five thousand dollars' worth of damage in Memphis.

A Wisconsin trout-raiser thinks to sell three thousand dollars worth this year.

Why He Didn't Go.

The Superintendent asked me to take charge of a Sunday School class.

"Why didn't you rather a hat lot," said he.

"They all went fishing last Sunday but little Johnny didn't. He is really a good boy, and I hope his example may yet redeem the others."

"I told him I would."

"They were rather a hard looking set, I don't think I ever witnessed a more elegant set of black eyes in my life. Little Johnny had the good boy in his place, and I smiled on him accordingly."

"As soon as the lesson was over, I said: 'Now, Johnny, the Superintendent tells me you went fishing last Sunday; all that little Johnny told me was that he didn't go.'"

"No, sir."

"That was right. Though this boy is the youngest among you, I mentioned, 'you know from his own lips that he didn't go.'"

"I told him up on the next lesson day, and I smiled on him accordingly."

"Now, Johnny, I want you to tell me what he said when you told him that he didn't go."'

"No, Sir, he said 'I couldn't, but I went to school.'"

"Well, that was right. Though this boy is the youngest among you, I mentioned, 'you know from his own lips that he didn't go.'"

The Future of Charlevoix County.

No locality in the North or West gives promise of greater future agricultural wealth than that portion of the Peninsula State known as the Grand Traverse Region, and nowhere within the limits of that famed region can be found the natural resources which warrant greater future wealth than in Charlevoix County. Nature has done everything that could be done in its construction. She gave the Northwest but one Pine Lake, and that she dropped here, on the north of a portion of Michigan's garden. And then, as if content with this she dropped a jewel of lakes and rivers between the Lake Geneva of the Peninsula and the broad Lake Michigan. Her work is perfection. She left only the work of development to those who should inhabit the fertile soil. As here we find which can not be excelled in the world. We have a wealth of timber, which the West has not. We have a climate milder than many localities in more southern latitudes, because of the climatic effect of our lake. We have navigable waters to the south, a part of our country. We have a harbor which will soon be prepared for occupancy. Our country is situated immediately upon the great thoroughfare of navigation, and therefore our facilities for transportation are excellent. The eastern portion of our county is soon to be traversed by the Union horse, and the completion of rail and water mail develop the county with marvelous rapidity. Why, then, looking at these things as they are, can we doubt the truth of our assertion, that Charlevoix county has a future of wealth stored up in these undeveloped resources. The time is not far distant when Charlevoix county will contribute much to the commerce of Michigan. This is coming about not slowly, but with rapid strides. Every year sees the enlargement of our agricultural resources. Every year valuable addition are made to our population from other parts. There is yet room for many to avail themselves of this excellent opportunity to secure a permanent home in this favored region.

Varsities.
At last! The work of removing the dam and other obstructions in the despondent canal has been finished, and the fast and dirty water of the Chicago river has been let into the Illinois and Michigan Canal, and henceforth Lake Michigan will run through the Chicago river into the canal, and thence into the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.... By the recent vote in Massachusetts, 205 towns prohibit the sale of malt liquors, and 30 towns permit it. The Spanish Government is about to get a heavy hand on the revolutionists in Cuba. A more vigorous and determined policy is likely to be at once adopted.... Two large steamers are to be built next winter at Buffalo, for the use of lake service, between Grand Haven and Milwaukee. Each is to be 235 feet long, 34 feet beam, and is to have 60 inch cylinders, of five feet stroke. The two will cost some $250,000, and they will have great accommodations for passengers, and abundance of room for freight.... Mrs. Beckwith, who is at Grand Marshall, in San Francisco at the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the proclamation of A. D. P. Foster, the murderer of Perry D. Foxworth, in a street car in New York city, who was convicted and sentenced to be hung on July 14th, has another claim for his life. Judge Pratt has granted a writ of error in his case, the effect of which is to stay the execution, and allow an appeal to be taken in the Supreme Court of the United States. (Grand and hence, it is expected, to the Court of Appeals....) The American Knight Templars from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, who are now visiting Detroit, were entertained in magnificent style on the Fourth by the staff of Sherburne and Detroit, at the west. At two towers in Sherburne, England. At the hour of the day and of his guests, the Earl caused the sides of the hall to be raised over the hall by the side of the ancient banner of the Talbots. Divine service was held in the chapel and a banquet was served in the hall. The Earl, in a most cordial speech, welcomed the Americans, and Sir Knight W. P. To the honor of New Orleans, made an appropriate response.... On the night before the Fourth the obsequies of the late William J. Foxworth, a native of Michigan, who died at the age of 80, and had a fraction less than eight feet high. His bride is about the same age and had a fraction less than eight feet high. His bride is about the same age and had a fraction less than eight feet high.

Complaints over Pleasanton has been suspended from the Revenue office by the President. The third trial of George Vanderpool began on Wednesday in Barry County Mich., for the murder of Herbert Field, at Manitowish. The British Government proposed the meeting of a Trafalgar Square, to protest against the granting of an amnesty to Prince Arthur, and named a force of police and soldiers were required on account of the threatening aspect of the proposed place was withdrawn, and a peaceable meeting was held without molestation and violent revolutionary sentiments were expressed.

It is highly attested that in the prosecution of the Vanderpool case, Mr. Nelson, Traverse City Attorney for Manitowish county, is to have the aid of Messrs. Eggleston and Church, of Grand Rapids. The defense is to be conducted by Dr. Francis H. H. M. Chester, of the Traverse City. The Vanderpool case is a very interesting one, and it is to be expected that it will be a very successful one. A new side-wheel steamer, capable of carrying 50 passengers, is soon to run between Grand Rapids and Grand Haven. Many of the Southern farmers are treating the short crop of wheat with indifference, and a few are even laughing at it. The wheat crop is a very good one, and it is to be expected that it will be a very successful one.

Vandorpool Acquitted.

As will be seen elsewhere, George Vandorpool has been acquitted. Two years ago he was arrested for the murder of Helen Field at Marquette. During the winter he was held, convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life. Subsequently a new trial was granted. He was taken from prison at Grand Rapids in October, 1897. The trial lasted over a month. New evidence was introduced by the defense. Five members of the jury were in favor of an acquittal. A third trial was granted which has ended in Marquette. He is now a free man.

Charlevoix, Mich., Saturday Morning, May 20, 1871.

The Editorial Convention.
The Grand Haven Herald of April 20th publishes a call for a Convention of the Editors and Publishers of the counties bordering on the East Shore of Lake Michigan, to be held at Port Huron, on Tuesday, the 6th of June next. The stated object of the Convention is to consider the propriety of organizing a Lake Shore Editorial Association. This has been agitated for some time by several of the Lake Shore Editors and we are gratified to learn that they have finally decided upon the time and place. The East Shore News assures the Editors of the Shore that they and their allies will receive a most cordial reception. We regret our inability to be present at the Convention, but we assure our brethren that we shall sympathize with them in all their actions.

Various.
The Spring Game at Saginaw has commenced. Allusion is made to a discovery of a first class mineral well. The execution of the Smith family has been terminated, by the fact that Mrs. Smith, of Ithaca city, who has emigrated with an emerald ring, was shot dead at Piche, Nevada, by a party having an entrenched position at a mine which was in dispute. He had no part in the quarrel; merely walking in the vicinity. The Emperor William, of Germany, is a direct descendant of Admiral Gaspard de Coligny, who was assassinated in Paris at the St. Bartholomew's massacre, August 24, 1572.

Editors of religious papers are well paid in Chicago. If he be true, as reported, that the Rev. Dr. Smith, of the Standard, Baptist, receives $5,000; and the Rev. Dr. Felt, of the Advance, Congregational, $1,000 per annum. The will of the late Jacob M. Howard was lately admitted to probate. The estate is valued at about $20,000. The bequests are of no public interest, being altogether to his children, among whom the property is equitably divided.

The 52d anniversary of the institution of the order in the United States is many of the large cities in the country, by processions, speeches, banquets, etc. At Lafayette, Ind., President Grant and Vice President Colfax participated in the celebration, and the latter delivered an eloquent and appropriate address, at the conclusion of which he was presented, in behalf of the ladies of the degree of the Daughters, with a very handsome bound Bible. The Republican party last year reduced National taxation in the State of New York one $100,000, or 100,000 dollars, or forty-five per cent. In order to meet the deficit under Democratic rule, the Democrats should have increased State taxation fifty-four per cent. As they were not to do this there will be a deficiency of Ten Millions the next year. The statement of the population, which will be sent to the Senate by the Census Bureau, in reply to a resolution of inquiry, will show the exact population of the States to be 38,104,810. That of the territorial and the District of Columbia, 412,694. Total, 38,517,504. As Congress has provided for the publication of many three volumes of the census return, no preliminary volume will be printed, and the first volume will not be ready in less than three months.

From Washington.
GOD BLESS WITH CHINA.
WASHINGTON, May 5.—The belief is expressed here by high officials that some action will be expected from China which will cause some action on the part of the Administration on the question of a further continuance of diplomatic relations with that country.

A CHINESE TRAIT.
A Chinese tract, translated into English, has been received here, and it is a most horrible misrepresentation of Christianity, religion, and draws a fearful picture of the Chinese race if they longer allow it to have a foothold in their country.

REPORTS FROM THE INDIANS.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—A letter has been received from Fort Arbuckle, in Indian Territory, stating that the tribes in that vicinity including the Cheyenne, Comanches and Kiowas are disposed to be very quiet, and that settlers are pursuing their daily avocations with an apprehension of trouble. The Indian tribes have reports from many points throughout Indian Territory, and there are no apprehensions felt of any organized hostility during the season now opening.

THE NEW TREATY.
New York, May 8.—A Tribune Washington special says the treaty negotiated by the Joint High Commission has been circulated in duplicate and will be signed at the end of the week. It will be sent to the Senate on Wednesday, accompanied by the message of the President. In order that Senators may as soon as possible become familiar with the provisions of the treaty, a few copies of it will be printed in confidence, for their use. The treaty will be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, who will consider it in detail, and report it back to the Senate, favorably or otherwise. Senator Morton is reported to have remarked in alluding to the great length of the document, and its important character, that it will take the committee a week to consider it. The President is said to be highly pleased with the result of the Commission's labors and to predict the favorable action of the Senate. A proposition will probably be made to have the provision of secrecy rescinded, in order that the treaty may be discussed in open session. Several Senators are known to have this, but an agreement has been made between the Commission that the treaty shall not be made public until ratifications had been exchanged.

THE SOUTH.
A Klu Klux Kilder in Florida.
New York, May 6.—The Tribune says Senator Odgers, now in Florida, has received information, by express, that a Klu Klux Kilder, who was a member of the Lower House of the Florida Legislature, was killed in Lake City on the 25th of April. The report is that the Kilder was provoked to anger by an appeal for killing him. He was a Southerner, and a Confederate soldier; but some time ago he joined the Republican party, and was elected to the Legislature in November. The Senator also has letters positively asserting that the Kilder was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and that he appeared in Tallahassee for the avowed purpose of assassinating Governor Towner.

The Editorial Convention.
The Grand Haven Herald of April 20th publishes a call for a Convention of the Editors and Publishers of the counties bordering on the East Shore of Lake Michigan, to be held at Port Huron, on Tuesday, the 6th of June next. The stated object of the Convention is to consider the propriety of organizing a Lake Shore Editorial Association. This has been agitated for some time by several of the Lake Shore Editors and we are gratified to learn that they have finally decided upon the time and place. The East Shore News assures the Editors of the Shore that they and their allies will receive a most cordial reception. We regret our inability to be present at the Convention, but we assure our brethren that we shall sympathize with them in all their actions.

The 52d anniversary of the institution of the order in the United States is many of the large cities in the country, by processions, speeches, banquets, etc. At Lafayette, Ind., President Grant and Vice President Colfax participated in the celebration, and the latter delivered an eloquent and appropriate address, at the conclusion of which he was presented, in behalf of the ladies of the degree of the Daughters, with a very handsome bound Bible. The Republican party last year reduced National taxation in the State of New York one $100,000, or 100,000 dollars, or forty-five per cent. In order to meet the deficit under Democratic rule, the Democrats should have increased State taxation fifty-four per cent. As they were not to do this there will be a deficiency of Ten Millions the next year. The statement of the population, which will be sent to the Senate by the Census Bureau, in reply to a resolution of inquiry, will show the exact population of the States to be 38,104,810. That of the territorial and the District of Columbia, 412,694. Total, 38,517,504. REPORTS FROM THE INDIANS.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—A letter has been received from Fort Arbuckle, in Indian Territory, stating that the tribes in that vicinity including the Cheyenne, Comanches and Kiowas are disposed to be very quiet, and that settlers are pursuing their daily avocations with an apprehension of trouble. The Indian tribes have reports from many points throughout Indian Territory, and there are no apprehensions felt of any organized hostility during the season now opening.

THE NEW TREATY.
New York, May 8.—A Tribune Washington special says the treaty negotiated by the Joint High Commission has been circulated in duplicate and will be signed at the end of the week. It will be sent to the Senate on Wednesday, accompanied by the message of the President. In order that Senators may as soon as possible become familiar with the provisions of the treaty, a few copies of it will be printed in confidence, for their use. The treaty will be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, who will consider it in detail, and report it back to the Senate, favorably or otherwise. Senator Morton is reported to have remarked in alluding to the great length of the document, and its important character, that it will take the committee a week to consider it. The President is said to be highly pleased with the result of the Commission's labors and to predict the favorable action of the Senate. A proposition will probably be made to have the provision of secrecy rescinded, in order that the treaty may be discussed in open session. Several Senators are known to have this, but an agreement has been made between the Commission that the treaty shall not be made public until ratifications had been exchanged.

The Great New York Riot.

Repetitions will be found elsewhere in relation to the threatened difficulties between Catholic and Protestant Irishmen in New York and Jersey City. It seems that the Orangemen prepared to have a picnic and parade to commemorate the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, and that the Catholics proposed they should not do so. The Catholics, it was, perhaps, not in good faith for the Orangemen to admit that time for the demonstration, but that they had a perfect right to do so, and ought to have been protected in that right, so far as the Catholics were concerned. The Catholics, however, did not get possession of this country to the extent that they must be considered wherever they differ from their wish to march in procession through the streets, and then they attempt it, as they did in this case, they ought to receive the sternest condemnation. The Catholics have a perfect right to parade wherever they please, so long as they do not disturb business, and so have the Orangemen, subject only to observe the laws of the land. The Orangemen, however, are the ones who are the cause of the disturbance of the peace of the city. The Orangemen, however, are the ones who are the cause of the disturbance of the peace of the city. Editor and Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Mich., Saturday Morning, July 12, 1873.

LOCAL NEWS.

SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1873.

VALMERE CLAY.—It will be remembered that a rich and extensive bed of clay was discovered last summer on land owned by Hon. J. S. Dixon, about two miles north of this village. It is thought that this clay will make the best of fire-brick. It was recently examined by Mr. Hallard, of the firm of Ballard & Stratton, of Detroit, who is to test a barrel of it which has been sent to their establishment, and we hope to have the results of the examination in the next issue of our paper.

WILLIAM A. SMITH,
Editor and Proprietor.

Charlotte, N.C., Saturday Morning, Sept. 2, 1871.

Various.

Another murder occurred at Maunabo on the 14th. A man by the name of Michael Pinnon stabbed another by the name of Anderson, which killed him immediately. Pinnon made his escape, but was overtaken at Trunkport and arrested while at a hotel sleep. It appears that Anderson had charged Pinnon on his fall, and for this the latter stabbed him. Wholly carried the row in the first place, and no doubt was the cause of the murder in the last place. The Vanderpool Trial all progresses. Nothing startling comes out in the evidence. The defense will try to establish the theory of Field's countering scheme. Ann Dickinson cleared $10,000 off the wrongs of her sex last year.

Personals.

Mrs. Lincoln is looking well. Mrs. Harte has had a hotel named after her. Hon. Geo. Wade was in Detroit on the 20th. Charles S. Childers, the publisher is dead. Horace Greeley visits Italy. "White" has returned. The Emperor and Empress of Brazil have reached Berlin. Prince Friedrich Wilhelm has returned to Berlin from his visit to England. The Prince and Princess of Wales are at Launceston, near Windsor. The father of the recently married, Foster, has not yet returned from his visit to Italy. J. N. Wilson, a San Francisco teacher, has been appointed to the Imperial College of Japan, at a salary of $5,000.

OLYSSSES S. GRANT;

Subject to the decision of the National Convention.

Blanco with 4,000 men in Mexico operating against the revolutionists who are retreating before the President, and preparing for a final struggle.

The Illinois Legislature is advancing a step on its higher law. A bill has already passed the Senate, the provisions of which require that every licensed salarist shall give $3,000 to be responsible for the damage done by drunken men. Of course under such a law the drunken man is liable for the damage done is made to meet the damages.

Michigan has at last been honored by the Imperial Austrian. He arrived in Detroit on the 25th, and together with the president and Russian visitors who accompany him was escorted to the Russell House. At our latest advice are of the 29th, we are made to give particulars of the coming, but Michigan will sustain her reputation for her hospitality.

The marriage of the Hon. Eugene

Hale of Maine and Miss Minnie Chandler, only child of Senator Chandler, of Michigan, lately, at the residence of Mr. Chandler, on 11th street, was a brilliant affair. They were married at half past 7 in the evening, and the wedding reception followed immediately after. The President and Mrs. Grant, Vice President Coffey and Mrs. Coffey, Senator

Blanco and the relatives and personal friends of the family composed the wedding party.

The reception was attended by a distinguished and select company, composed of the fashion and the elite of the capital.

Bartholomew, a Berlin dispatch, has sent a dispatch to Baron von Arnim, German representative at Paris, setting forth the feeling of exasperation caused in Germany by outrages perpetrated by her soldiers in France. The dispatches to some indignation in the occupied provinces, and in the future sanctions will be imposed on neighboring provinces are delivered up to German officers by the French authorities; and he declares that unless those outrages cease the army of occupation shall be increased, and the property and herds of the occupied provinces, which he paid by the French, doubled.

Two men have been deterring him. The prospects for lying in the Ludlow street jail after being out of it was not as agreeable as his first stay in the cell in the state house. He would rather have been in the state house, than in the Ludlow street jail. Every body who has been in the Great Britain attempted to get the assent of our own Government to the whole. This would have tied the hands of the National Government, but would have enabled Great Britain and France to have letters of marque to the other powers, which, if changed they would do, the Government maintain that unless our claims are allowed the treaty is a nullity, and that the Government of friendly nations. If this becomes international law the United States will be greatly re-forced, and our consent from granting our long life of coast during the previous of foreign wars.

The people of the Upper Peninsula are again beginning to discuss the question of their separation from the State of Michigan, following paragraphs, as follows:

The Judge found himself in a corridor lighted with lamps, the walls of the bare stone it looked like a passage in a prison. His pounds placed him in the hands of other people. Here and there he saw ghastly figures, pacing to and fro, with mallets over their shoulders. He saw these by glimpses, round corners, and at the ends of passages, but he did not actually pass them by.

The stone that composed them looked more enormous, crackled, and un-temple of blocks above its regular level columns lighted in decent shadows. A case had just closed, and the last judge's robe was sweeping through the door in the wall of the temple. There were some dozen bar-isters sitting with pen and ink, others standing in rows, some looking to their attorneys, of whom there were not a few;

there were clerks toiling and frowning, and the officers of the court, and the registrar, who was handling up a paper to the judge and the tip-stall who was presenting a note at the end of his wand to a king's counsel over the heads of the crowd. If this was the High Court of Appeal, which never rose night or day, it might account for the pale and jaded aspect of every body in it. An air of incredulous fatigue hung upon the pallid faces of every body here, as one ever smiled; all looked more or less severely suffering.

Jack Billings is a Weather Prophet.
When clouds are observed before day-light in the morning, observed among the clouds, and after the sun has risen, then look out for rain and a cold weather. When you see a cold, clear sky, with a few clouds, and the sun is shining, then look out for a warm and a hot weather. When you see a cold, clear sky, with a few clouds, and the sun is shining, then look out for a warm and a hot weather.

Whole No. 156

"I do with us. You must come along," the unsmiler of my guardians.
But, what am I charged with? What do want me for?"
Well, that is a good joke, and you are a hand," replied W. C. 1172. "But saw

“You are a miscreant, my man. We are bound to take you up, and you are bound to come up, quietly if you will, if not—” Here I caught up the handcuffs. “You are bound with forging a check for £500 on the London Bank; and with half-killing, if not fully murdering, P. C. Smith, of the Hampshire force. We are going to take you in lock-up; and to-morrow you will have to appear before the magistrates. I am glad to caution you that you need not say anything; and that if you do say anything to hurt yourself, it will be brought up as evidence against you.” And so I was a forger Verdier !

Well—but," said I, "these are not my clothes. A gentleman in the carriage gives clothes with me ; or, rather, he left me—ah—un—dressed ; and I put on these and then you came, and—ah—and—confess, you don't think I am he ?"
"No," said W. J., 1172, "you ain't him a bit of it, you are yourself.—Well, most think us green, to try and palm that on us." And immediately there arose a wildness of chuckle.
So long it came to pass that I was obliged to accompany my employers to the pu-tion, Mr. Inspector booked the charge, why it seemed that I really was a "lone" silent murderer. It was quite in vain I protested and vowed that I was not a lone murder in question, but Edward Gerald, of Sunny Villa, near Sandstone cut short in my protestations "without must prove that before the magistrates to-morrow, if you can."

"I suppose, too, you will want me to pay a shilling?"

My I write—Richard Brownsmith, Police-Station 1, th White, to Augusta Brownsmith, Snouy a, Sandstone.
—I am taken up wrongly on suspicion, at once, during year of watch to prove innocent.
An hour's time a grim policeman handed the following telegram in reply—Hear—I am not so easily taken in by fudge. Come home; take me to the sea-shen all forgiven.
w, I never before, in my recollection, at man or woman; but I am afraid that month did farm what, I suppose, the sapmentations of the new, still the island word, terminating with the stem N; they would probably farther describe it narrative verb. Thank goodness my student understand all that: I suspect the utter wretchedness of that night at fucked up in my cell! Before post—subject to police inspection, and, I believe, police copy—I wrote a most hampering letter to my wife. Goodness amount of dirt I cut in that epistle, morning, about twelve o'clock, I was p before the magistrates. Every thing you already know was brought up me; and, moreover, it was sworn that George, dressed as I was, had left Sand-station dressed in the very clothes I had and a knife and ticket such as were found on me. My telegram and its answer were put forward condemning evidence. It stated that the reply was supposed to be from a accomplice, and in cypher and was asked for. I was reminded, by two of the magistrates seemed slightly irritated; but, really, my shaggy dress, my wild harrased appearance, and circumstances in general, were so much against me, I was not surprised at what happened. When the court was up, I was again put in-back before the Bench. "To my glad surprise I saw about to come into the witness box, my wife, the clergyman of my parish - not, I thought, Somersetshire magistrates, one of whom afterwards appeared, was known to the members of the North Wilts bench as Mr. . . . Quickly it was proven to the semi-illuminated eye of all searching, unpaid judges, that I was what I am, and not the notorious forger and malefactor, Jabez Gough, who to many other aliases that I dare not repeat to pick out his real name.

"The meeting with my wife and friends; the refusal but not at all servile apology of the accused men late guardians; the dinner

Some of the emigrants who had sat in front on Tuesday the journey home next day increasing hunter which I everywhere enjoyed, and the useful cartain-lectures from life, I pass over and leave to the imagination of my readers, though to me they were realities. All I can say is that if there are any wives who possess the twenty-Candle I beg pardon, twenty-Candle mare—that Mrs. Brownsmith is gifted with, surprised that there are no more colonies than that the Registrar General would not believe. Of course I had to take it, to the sea-side. She put on the intelligence of some weeks hence, there was —to the great misfortune of her friend husband. I hear her gentle voice me to roll the grass plot. It's hard Choosing Land at a Profit.

It is a constant complaint in the well-to-do circles of the country, that the land is too cheap. And no wonder when the facts are so plain. A few acres of good land, with a few acres of water, will produce a good income. And the land is so cheap, that it is almost impossible to find a good investment. The land is so cheap, that it is almost impossible to find a good investment. The land is so cheap, that it is almost impossible to find a good investment.

ties of their party. They cling to ideas upon which they have staked their much treasured lives. And they even go as far as to believe that the Government is committed to the maintenance of a certain course of action, or that some of its members are laboring in the belief that their only duty is to perpetrate the worst crimes of which they are capable, and to triumph. To them the country is a blind man, and can be guided only by a rope run on to his hand from the other side of the street. It is not a proper subject for discussion, and it is not a proper subject for consideration. Figure 1 shows a schematic diagram of a two-dimensional lattice. The lattice is represented by a grid of points. At the top, there is a label S_1 . Below it, a horizontal line is labeled S_2 . To the left of the grid, there is a label S_3 . In the center, there is a label S_4 . To the right, there is a label S_5 . At the bottom, there is a label S_6 . The grid is composed of points connected by lines, forming a lattice structure.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint smudges, characteristic of old paper. The left edge of the page shows the binding of the book, and the overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.
